

the Conference!

21 November 2008 www.communication-ethics.net

WHISTLEBLOWERS AND MISCHIEF-MAKERS: THE ETHICS OF SCANDAL

WORDS: DAVID LEIGH, KAREN SANDERS, MICHAEL FORD & SIMON GOLDSWORTHY

World Exclusive!

Full details of the conference can be accessed at ICE's website: www.communication-ethics.net

Annual café conference of the Institute of Communication Ethics
21 November 2008, 10 am – 5 pm

London College of Communication:
Boardroom, Elephant & Castle
London, SE1 6SB
020 75146569

Cost: £65 (£60 to ICE members)

Those interested in presenting papers should send 200-word abstracts to the conference co-ordinators, Richard Lance Keeble (rkeeble@lincoln.ac.uk) or Fiona Thompson (f.thompson@leedstrinity.ac.uk) by October 1. Issues could include the history of scandal coverage in the media; case study analyses of media coverage of scandals; handling scandal coverage: the dilemmas of PR; handling scandal: journalists' perspectives; corporate scandals: how managements respond; scandal and the ethics and dilemmas of whistleblowers; the politics of scandal: feminist and Marxist approaches.

Keynote speakers

- David Leigh, top investigative journalist, The Guardian
- Karen Sanders, Professor, Faculty of Humanities, San Pablo University, Madrid, and co-author of Morality Tales: Political Scandal and Politics in Britain and Spain in the 1990s
- Michael Ford, writer and reporter/presenter for BBC Religion and Ethics and BBC World Service.
- Simon Goldsworthy, Senior Lecturer in Public Communication, University of Westminster.

